

EGERTON

UNIVERSITY

VICE-CHANCELLOR'S INFORMATION FACT SHEET

Issue No. 50 of March 2019

NATIONAL FORUM FOR UNIVERSITIES, TVETS AND INDUSTRY ACTORS IN THE AGRICULTURAL SECTOR PROGRAM

Egerton University through the TAGDev Project organized the 2nd National Forum for Universities, TVETs and industry actors in the Agricultural Sector Program. The 2-day event held in Naivasha on 13th and 14th March, 2019 drew participants from various institutions of higher learning, research organizations, County Government Department of Agriculture and farmers. The conference was officially opened by Prof. Fred K. Segor the Principal Secretary, State Department for Irrigation, Ministry of Agriculture. It was facilitated by Mastercard Foundation through TAGDev Project at Egerton University.

EGERTON UNIVERSITY PROMOTES ACADEMIC OUTREACH

Over the past few weeks, various University staff members have participated in career fairs organized by secondary schools in Kenya. The core objectives have been to disseminate University academic programs and offer career guidance to students aspiring to get university education. Some of the career fairs include Makueni County Career Expo, the Annual Science and Engineering Fair for Secondary Schools from the Rift Valley Region and a career talk hosted at Ofafa Jericho High School that brought together Buruburu Girls High School and Nile Road Girls High Schools in Nairobi.

EGERTON UNIVERSITY ALUMNUS WINS GLOBAL PRIZE

Peter Tabichi, an alumnus of Egerton University from the Faculty of Education and Community Studies won the 2019 Global Teacher Prize Award. The award, announced in a ceremony in Dubai on 24 March 2019 recognise the "exceptional" teacher's commitment to pupils in Nakuru County. Brother Tabichi, of the Franciscan religious order, wants to raise aspirations and to promote the cause of science across Africa.

Congratulations to Brother Tabichi for your achievement and commitment to pupils of Keriko Mixed Day Secondary School.

PROF. ROSE A. MWONYA
VICE-CHANCELLOR

Transforming Lives through Quality Education